The Badwoods is a sacred place where no one dare step foot into. All you can touch is spiky pine leaves in the hundreds of spruce trees, it is almost like the spikes on the trees are a trap to spike you dangerously. You can see endless dirt which is almost like quicksand, but worse it sucks you down into the undergrowth. You can hear rain and strange noises.

If you are a newcomer to the Badwoods, you would run away in seconds. There are weird and wonderful mythical creatures for example a mix of a frog and a leech. The smell is completely bare with just the smell of air for miles. The Badwoods take hours and hours to hike and causes pain in your legs when you hike the Badwoods.

It's almost as if the Badwoods are a human trap.
